Formal Advisory Committees are formal groups that look at items with possible impacts outside the purview of any one division. They provide a forum for discussion of issues surrounding policy, services, resources, and process. Groups have the ability to advise and establish policy. They serve an advisory and consultative role in the governance (decision-making) process.